Graduates of the Department of Music pursue careers as diverse as conducting, performing, composing, film music, arts administration, sound recording and teaching. Music graduates are also attractive to schools of medicine and law. All UVU students are invited to audition for our choirs, orchestras, bands (including jazz band), percussion ensemble, and chamber groups. Students may take private lessons on most instruments. Our courses satisfy general education requirements, transfer to other four-year institutions, and can be used in the Integrated Studies degree. Our academic classes in music theory and music history aim to help students understand how the disciplines of the mind can enrich our experience of the "language of the heart."
