Professional Development

Improving Learning Outcomes

The UVU School of Education's professional development opportunities are crafted for a broad cross-section of educational stakeholders: parents, school administrators, teachers, business and community leaders, and others who shape or implement educational policy. Through a variety of approaches to learning - seminars, workshops, lectures, webinars, and online and face-to-face courses - participants acquire new perspectives on teaching and learning, deepen their repertoire of instructional skills, engage in personal reflection, and build lasting professional networks.

Community Involvement

K-16 Alliance

This educational alliance is chaired by the president of Utah Valley University, the president of MTECH, and a public school superintendent representative with the shared goal to include and help students progress at every level, in every school environment in the service region. The Alliance has established priorities for K-12, charter, technical, and college students to increase educational attainment in the Mountainland region.
