

At Driven Investments, we are hiring 4 advisors in the next few weeks to start in January. This is a sales role, taking appointments with potential clients that we will put in their calendars. It is a full-time position but we are remote and can be very flexible with the hours. It is salaried and can be expected to make $40-$50K in year 1 and potentially double that in year 2. We have built in a very aggressive raise package. We are looking for confident, personable people who want a long-term career and are willing to build and grow Driven Investments with us long-term. We will likely be deciding very quickly so if you think you may be a fit, throw your hat in the ring and shoot me a message to connect.
