Course Assignments, Assessments, and Grading Policy

This course is designed to increase competence in drawing methods for visual communicators. Students develop observational and conceptual abilities through intensive practice, lecture, demonstration, and critique, applying representational drawing principles and techniques to portray form and space effectively in 2 dimensions. Students also work towards achieving a level of competency with drawing materials.

Grading Policy

1. Late work will not be accepted for grading

a. Deadlines for each assignment are given when projects are discussed. If work is not finished and turned in on the deadline you will not receive full credit for that assignment.

b. Completed homework projects are due at the beginning of the class period on the date defined in the course calendar. The beginning of the class period is defined as when the role is taken—after that time, work has missed the deadline and cannot be accepted for grading. All project due dates can be found on Canvas.

c. Knowing that sometimes there are problems beyond your control or your instructor may require changes that will delay the completion of your project; an extension of the deadline requires instructor approval in advance.

2. Projects must be finished on the due date when we hold a brief class critique. Projects are then left to receive a grade.

Students will have the opportunity to improve their work after the critique. Students are, in fact, required to make changes defined by the instructor during the critique (take notes). This is one of the most important aspects of student learning. It also parallels professional practices.

3. Grading for this class is based on the student's ability to demonstrate these four criteria:

Appropriateness of solution to the assignment, Design/Composition, Draughtsmanship, Craftsmanship (Skill with tools, neatness, and care) and Timeliness.

A total of 100 points are possible for each project.

Any project may be reworked for a higher score. All reworked projects must be completed and turned in the last week of class.

Generative AI

AI programs are not a replacement for your human creativity, originality, and critical thinking. Drawing, painting, thinking, ideating, and researching are crafts that you must develop over time to develop your voice. At the same time, you should learn how to use AI and in what instances AI can be helpful to you.

The use of generative AI tools (e.g. ChatGPT, Google Bard, Dall-e, etc.) is permitted in this course for the following activities:

- Brainstorming and refining your ideas;
- Finding information on your topic;
- Organizing your thoughts

The use of generative AI tools is not permitted in this course for the following activities:

- Impersonating you in classroom contexts, such as by using the tool to compose discussion board prompts/responses assigned to you or content that you put into a Teams/Canvas chat.
- Completing work that has been assigned to you.
- Composing, drawing, or digitally painting entire parts of your project including thumbnail sketches, comp sketches, or completed work.

You are responsible for the information and creative output you submit based on any AI query (for instance, that it does not violate intellectual property laws, or contain misinformation or unethical content). Your use of AI tools must be properly documented and cited to stay within university policies on academic honesty.

Any student work submitted using AI tools should indicate what work is the student's work and what part is generated by the AI. In such cases, no more than 25% of the student work should be generated by AI. If any part of this is confusing or uncertain, please reach out to me for a conversation before submitting.

Using Remote Testing Software

This course does not use remote testing software.

This course uses remote testing software. Remote test-takers may choose their remote testing locations. Please note, however, that the testing software used for this may conduct a brief scan of remote test-takers' immediate surroundings, may require use of a webcam while taking an exam, may require the microphone be on while taking an exam, or may require other practices to confirm academic honesty. Test-takers therefore shall have no expectation of privacy in their test-taking location during, or immediately preceding, remote testing. If a student strongly objects to using test-taking software, the student should contact the instructor at the beginning of the semester to determine whether alternative testing arrangements are feasible. Alternatives are not guaranteed.

Faculty and students share the responsibility of ensuring the honesty and fairness of the intellectual environment at UVU. Students have a responsibility to promote academic integrity at the university by not participating in or facilitating others' participation in any act of academic dishonesty. As members of the academic community, students must become familiar with their rights and responsibilities.
